healthcare organizations 6
trillion dollars by 2020.

That is $6,000,000,000!

Healthcare Data Breaches, By the Numbers

- 1. 89% of healthcare organizations experienced a data breach in the past two years. Despite the sophisticated measures put in place by providers, data breaches are still common.
- 2. A Mid-Horizon study concluded that approximately 100 percent of web applications connected to critical health information is vulnerable to cyber-attacks. Network penetration results also showed that hackers could easily access domain level admin privileges of most healthcare applications. As a result, the use of advanced technologies such as block-chain and cloud computing is necessary to ward off such attacks in the future.

It is estimated that the loss of data and related failures will cost healthcare companies nearly $6 trillion in damages in the next three years compared to $3 trillion, in 2017. From a statistical point of view, it is the most significant transfer of wealth in human history. If proper security measures are not taken, experts believe that cybercrime can have a devastating financial impact on the healthcare sector in the next four to five years.
- 4. 82% of surveyed healthcare organizations agree that digital security is one of their foremost concerns.
- 5. 55% of healthcare companies in the United States faced cyber-attacks. Almost one-fifth confirmed that they had been attacked in the last 12 months.
